Living Well Assisted Living at Home Becomes Exclusive Value Added Provider for INRange Systems' EMMA®

(Altoona, PA) INRange Systems, Inc. is pleased to announce that Living Well Assisted Living at Home has become an Exclusive Value Added Provider of the EMMA® System for their private pay customers in the San Francisco Bay Area.

“Living Well Assisted Living at Home has put together a truly unique combination of talent and technology to provide elders the opportunity to not just live independently but to flourish,” said Tony Pratt, INRange’s Vice President of Sales and Marketing. “We are thrilled to have them as a Value Added Provider of the EMMA® System.”

Living Well Assisted Living at Home, based in San Francisco, CA, provides elders who face medical or age-related challenges with a true alternative to moving from their homes to facilities. Their combination of caring people, technology, and extensive expertise in gerontology is the key to being able to avoid institutionalization regardless of whether they are healthy and engaged or dealing with chronic physical illness or any type of dementia.

INRange Systems, Inc., based in Altoona, Pa., commercialized EMMA®, its remote medication management technology, in August 2008. Caring for the elderly in a dignified manner is a national priority. EMMA® is an ideal tool to allow the elderly to live independently in a cost-efficient and safe manner. Currently, 23% of Medicare Emergency Room visits are due to the elderly mismanaging their medications. EMMA® acts as the “arm of the caregiver” in the patient’s home. It provides documented and detailed medication administration. EMMA® is remotely programmed by the pharmacist, insuring that the patient’s medications are delivered according to the physician’s prescribed dosing instructions.
